COIND has officially announced the inauguration of its new production department dedicated to the coffee pod line. This milestone represents a strategic step in the Cooperative's growth and strengthens its commitment to innovation and operational excellence.

The investment in the new department will enable COIND to:

- increase overall production capacity;
- enhance process efficiency and safety;
- ensure even higher product quality standards;
- respond more quickly and flexibly to evolving market demands.

The two new production lines feature state-of-the-art technology capable of producing between 200 and 250 coffee pods per minute, across both small and large formats. These advanced systems are designed to optimize performance while maintaining consistent quality throughout the production process.

E.S.E. pods fit into a rapidly growing market segment, particularly attentive to coffee quality and aspects related to sustainability and the circular economy.

With this expansion, COIND further consolidates its position in the private label coffee market and reaffirms its commitment to continued investment in innovation and sustainability.
